

DCP Undergraduate Faculty Teaching Award

Purpose: Recognize faculty members for their outstanding teaching performance of undergraduate students

Evaluation Criteria:

- Evidence of continued outstanding teaching performance
- Teaching evaluations for past 3 years
- Letters of support from students

Eligibility: All DCP faculty and lecturers teaching undergraduate students, not be a prior winner of the DCP Undergraduate Faculty Teaching Award within the past 5 years

Nomination: Nominations may be submitted by students, faculty, and staff. Nominations must be forwarded to the program/unit chair or director. Each graduate program is limited to one nomination. The winner of this award will go on to represent DCP for the UF Teacher of the Year award.

Application: Nominees need to submit a 1 page (max) statement describing their teaching philosophy, 3 letters of support from previous or current students, a list of courses taught, 1 page narrative letter of nomination clearly identifying the outstanding qualities of the nominee

Frequency: 1 award annually

Judge: DCP Awards Committee will provide a recommendation for the Dean. Dean will make a final decision.

Award: Monetary award of $200.00; Certificate; Recognition at DCP Faculty and Staff Awards